As a school has many faces
so it has many feet.

Thousands
have traveled
daily
on the walkways of Bethel.

Each
who has walked
here has made an individual impression.

As distinctive
as fingerprints—
no two
leave the same mark
behind.

The footprints
of those who have walked here are lightly imprinted
as in sand . . .
to be replaced quickly
by fresher ones.

All are similar in size and shape . . .
some the result of an awkward stumble others of more certain stride.

All mark the way
for less experienced
travelers . . .
soon to be forgotten
but never erased
completely.

To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under Heaven

Ecclesiastes

But I would not feel so all alone . . .
Dylan

They are not long, the days of wine and roses, out of a misty dream
our Path emerges for a while,
then closes.
